Hello!

My name is Joe Harvey, and I am a local author from Bethlehem, PA. My first book, From Blue Ground, has recently been released by Sunbury Press, Inc. in Mechanicsburg, PA. I am writing to ask if you would please consider having me for your next author visit. From Blue Ground is a middle-grade historical novel set in nineteenth-century Pennsylvania. It is a fast-paced book, great for reluctant readers. While the book is geared toward middle grade students, many adults and younger students have enjoyed the book, too. (Please find more information about the book and my bio attached.)

I am a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators (SCBWI). You can find the link for my SCBWI Speaker's Bureau page below. I am also a former teacher and have experience giving presentations to a wide range of students of various size groups from grades three through twelve. Please find attached descriptions of the types of presentations for the particular grade level in which you may be interested. You can also find pictures and videos from past presentations that I have given to students in third through twelfth grade on my website at joeharvey.net/author-visits/.

I hope you will consider supporting a local author who is just starting out! Below you will find my contact information, the contact information of my publisher, and links where you can find me on the web. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Joe Harvey
